

Screen Skills

Course Profile - Half Day

One fun-packed workshop, Hundreds of Benefits

Unique to Mediawise, this half day workshop looks at the interpersonal skills necessary to become a television reporter. It guides pupils through the challenges of presenting and interviewing and encourages creative and global thinking. It is closely linked to the National Curriculum, and develops genuine self-esteem while greatly improving your students' presentation and communication skills.

Who's it for?

- Screenskills (half day) is aimed at children in Key Stage 2 & 3
- Groups of up to 30 students at a time (larger groups are possible by arrangement)
- Half-day (3 hour) workshop including a break

What they'll learn

- Techniques to enhance development and presentation of their learning platform
- How to present information effectively and confidently
- Improved speaking and listening skills
- Interview methods that will develop useful interpersonal qualities
- How to construct and deliver an engaging news report
- Creative camerawork
- An appreciation of television news and its importance in daily life
- Teamwork and co-operation with classmates
- Global thinking - seeing and understanding the bigger picture

Student feedback

"I felt not very confident at the start of the day and by the end of the day I felt so confident I did not want to go home"

"My favourite part of the day was when we got to re-watch ourselves as I got to learn by my mistakes"

"I learnt how to look at people when I'm talking... I didn't think the day would be as fantastic as it was"

Teaching Staff Feedback

"The professional expertise you brought to the day, and the fact that you are a reporter, gave the pupils a great sense of self-worth and kudos"

"It was a really great day - the pupils are using the skills to consolidate other areas of learning"

What you will receive...

- Pre-course information and direction for teaching staff
- An entertaining, hands-on, highly interactive workshop for students AND staff
- Delivered by an experienced television Presenter, Reporter or Correspondent
- Post Course Key information and terminology Guide including Key overview slides to reinforce ideas
- Follow-on ideas to practice and embed the techniques

Prices from £200 per workshop. Please contact Mediawise for further information and an individual quote based on location and class size.

Office: 01892 665017 (M-F 09.00 - 17.00) Mobile: 07967 276194